Drivers of Change

- Retailers are recognising,
 - That the costs and risks associated with the cash handling process are worthy of significant Process Redesign Initiatives
- Equipment Manufacturers are recognising,
 - That as Cash Handling technology matures, there are opportunities to develop equipment that supports the redesign initiatives and extends automation beyond the walls of the 'Cash Centre'

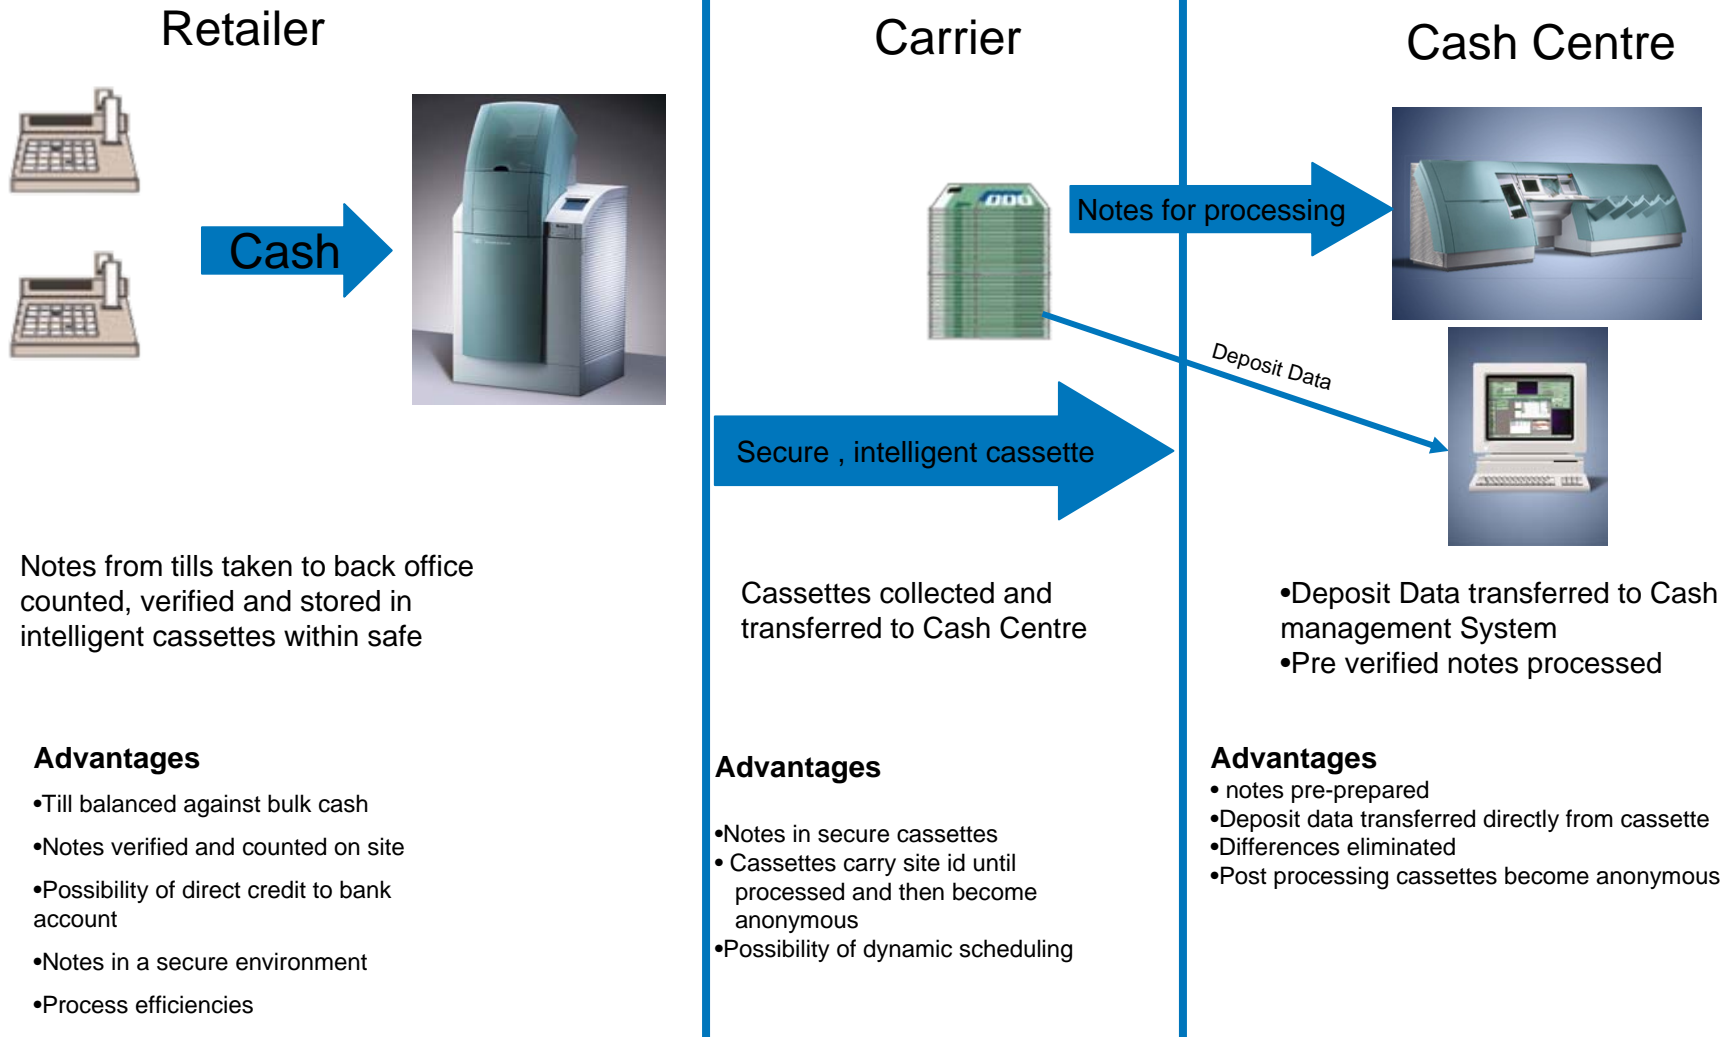

Options

■ Products already in the market place or under development by manufacturers provide opportunities to automate and streamline the:

- entire till-based activity in store;
- cash handling activity around the till;
- cash handling activity around the till and into the back office;
- back office cash handling activities;
- back office cash handling activities and extend the process out of the retailers domain into the cash centre
- any other combination of the above

Automate the Back Office and extend the process through to the Cash Centre
